United Airlines Connects Newark and Stockholm with New Direct Flight

United Airlines has launched a new seasonal non-stop route between Newark and Stockholm, operating daily. Originally planned for 2022, the airline had to postpone the launch due to aircraft availability constraints.

United Airlines is the third carrier to offer flights between New York (EWR/JFK) and Stockholm, following in the footsteps of Delta and SAS. With the addition of United's new route, American travelers will have even more options when planning their trip to Sweden.

United Airlines' decision to launch this direct flight reflects the growing interest in travel between the US and Sweden.
